Child Referral - Parent Information

At Longwood House we have a children's specialist dentist, and hope that you and your patients find this service of use. I will appreciate it if your parents could read through the script below prior to attending with their child.

"Why do we need Specialist dental care for our child?"

There are not many dentists specialising in children's dentistry. Many specialists work in the hospital where your child may wait up to a month to be seen. Your child is being referred to a specialist in order to have treatment or advice regarding their dental development. Your dentist may not have all the resources required for specialist treatment. The Specialist at Longwood House is Dr P. Anand - She is also working as the Consultant Paediatric Dentist at The Eastmans Dental Hospital in London. You will need to attend a first consultation with your child for a full assessment and treatment planning. You will be contacted in the next few days, and appointments are usually made for the weekend. The consultation Fee is taken at the time of booking, so please have your card at hand.

Children scared of the dentist's chair will benefit seeing a specialist, as your child will be treated very gently and there will be lot's of TLC.

Many parents believe that children's first dentition is not important and a loss of a tooth is 'OK.' This is simply not true. Decay and poor dental development has a profound impact on the development of your Childs adult teeth. Extraction of teeth at a young age create an imbalance, causing the adult set of teeth to come through in a 'crooked' manor. To then have these teeth straightened means further extractions of adult teeth are then unavoidable. A dental abscess left untreated or poorly treated can also damage and weaken the developing adult teeth.

Your dentist may refer your child to a specialist in order to avoid treatment under general anaesthetic (as this carries a great risk to your Childs general well being). The Specialist can occasionally "win" your child over, build up their confidence and alleviate their anxiety; thus on many occasions General Anaesthesia can be avoided. It is always worth exploring this route! For those children requiring difficult treatment or have a fear of dentistry, the specialist can use "Happy Gas" (nitrous oxide) as it is a safe, short acting and an efficient way to relieve anxiety in a child. IV sedation is also available for children over 10yrs. The aim is to provide gentle and pain free treatment and build up a positive attitude towards dentistry.

The Specialist will discuss all aspects of your Childs treatment needs with you and your general dentist and provide her expert professional opinion. She will also undertake surgery for children; extractions, frenectomy, orthodontic extractions and exposures.

"It is important to maintain the first set of teeth in order to ensure healthier and stronger adult teeth for your child."

The consultation will be for 45 to 60 min - cost £140. The basic charge for treatments is £70 per half hour, this includes basic fillings. Other special costs will be discussed at the consultation. Once treatment is completed you will be referred back to your practitioner for general after care. (You may be required to reattend once every 1 or 2 years for maintenance).

To avoid any delay, you may wish to contact us directly to arrange an appointment on 020 8551 0088. (If the referral is of an urgent nature, evening appointments can be arranged - a call out fee will apply).
